MADE MOORE A VICTIM.

Philadelphia Turns the Seventh Into a Scene of Slaughter.

CLEVELAND, July 30.—The Phillies fell on Moore at a terrific pace in the seventh inning of today's game. Hart succeeded him and stopped the slaughter, but the damage was already done. Plank pitched an effective game for the visitors.

WILLIS TO THE RESCUE. Giants Narrowly Prevented

From Winning at Boston. BOSTON, July 30.-After a month's absence the Bostons began a series, beating New York 5 to 4 in a slow game, thus strengthening their hold on fifth place. Pittinger was very effective up to the seventh inning, when Taylor's single was followed by Van Haltren's long homer. To save the game, Selec sent Willis to the rubber, and he allowed the Giants but one run. This tally was sufficient to tie the score. In the eighth, Cooley singled and went to third on a sacrifice by Mur-phy, scoring on Long's hit. The score: BOSTON R. H. PO. A. E.

KITSON'S WORK EFFECTIVE. Only Errors Kept the Phillies From

Being Shut Out. NEW YORK, July 20.-The Brooklyns did some pretty hitting today and took a game from the Phillies without much trouble. Kitson was very effective for the champions and but for errors would have shut the Quakers out. The score: R. H. PO. A. E. 0 0 3 0 0 PHILADELPHIA.

Wife of a Retired Naval Officer Seeks a Divorce With Alimony.

Complainant Specifics Numerous Instances When, She Says, Her Hus. band Pailed in His Duty Toward Her-Distressed by His Letters.

Margaret E. Rodney yesterday filed suit in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia for divorce and alimony from Robert Burton Rodney, a retired officer of the Navy. The complainant, in her bill, states that they were married in Foronto, Canada, on November 3, 1909. The complainant says that after their Arigato, 165; Alma Girl, 169; Mellie I., marriage she and the defendant moved to Baby Hall, Queen W., Buzzer, Owletta, this city and resided together until Janmary, 1961, when she brought suit to com pel the defendant to support her, the suit being equity cause No. 2964, in the Su-preme Court of the District. She further alleges that on the same day, in the back parior of 469 Florida Avenue, the defend-ant made the same proposition, which she declares she vigorously rejected. She asks permission to submit the letter as a part of the evidence. The defendant, she de-clares, threatened to give her no more money unless she acceded to his proposal. Since that time, she avers, he has falled to properly provide for her, or to supply her with money.

The complainant avers that she is con tinually in receipt of letters from him which are distasteful and repulsive. She also declares that the defendant took her sealskin sack and various other articles. She is suffering, she says, from mervous disorders, brought on by the defendant's

Mrs. Rodney declares that her husband is a retired officer of the navy with a salary of $1,600 a year, and that in addition he is engaged as a solicitor in the prosecution of claims against the United States Government, which brings him an additional income. He is also alleged to have other private means.

The petitioner therefore prays the court that rermanent alimony be granted her with the divorce. She is represented by Sellhausen & Coibert. She has filed an affidavit with the application for divorce, stating that on account of her poverty she is unable to make a deposit or give security for costs of the suit.

WESTERN DOCTOR'S ESCAPADE Alleged to Have Deserted His Wife for Another.

BELVIDERE, N. J., July 30.—Dr. W. Osborn, of San Francisco, arrived at Del-aware, Warren County, a few days ago. With him came a woman whom he in-troduced as his wife. He went to the home of his mother and the alleged wife stopped at one of the summer hotels, the Delawanna, where she remained until the fact leaked out that she was not the doctor's lawful wife. The landlord thereupon invited her to leave his place, which she woman, who was very handsoms and elegantly attired, then came to Beividere and stopped at the Warren House, where, it is said, she registered as Mrs. Dorothy Osborn, San Francisco. The landlord was told that she was Dr. Os-born's wife and that her husband had been called East on account of his mother's iliness and that while here he was trying to sell some mining stocks. She said the accommodations were very poor at Delaware, and she therefore came here so that she might be at a first-class hotel. The woman also confided to the ladies the house that she had tor some seven years ago while a trained nurse in a Western hospital. It seemed to be a case of love at first sight. While e was here the doctor came down from Delaware to see his wife several times. The hotel people were shocked when on a train from Delaware there came a hand-some woman who inquired for Dr. Os-She said she was his wife, had just arrived from California, and had wired er husband from Chicago to meet her at Delaware. She soon learned the whole situation and then, bursting into tears, said that her husband had drawn his bank account and she was left almost penniless. The facts of the doctor's escapade almost crushed her and sae returnd to Delaware heartbroken.

It appears that the doctor and his com panion had been driven in a livery rig to Phillipsburg, where they took a southbound train on the Pennsylvanta Road for Philadelphia. This was made known to the real wife, and after learning that the elopers had started for Philadelphia she expressed herself as determined to find them at all bazards. Mrs. Osborn, the real wife, gave evilence of culture and refinement. Nothing has been learned of the doctor since his departure for Philadelphia, and the imession prevails that he and the woman have gone West. It is said the doctor enjoys a very incrative practice in San Francisco, that he has amassed a fortune on the Pacific Slope, having made great deal of money out of mining

A SEVENTH STREET RUNAWAY. in a Chinese Laundry.

Seventh Street was the scene of an exiting runaway shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Two horses attached to a farmer's wagon had been left by their owner near the corner of Seventh and P Streets northwest. During his ab-sence the animals became frightened at the passing cars and dashed madly down mob of citizens in pursuit.

When near the corner of O Street the horses sheered off to one side and ran up horses sheered off to one side and ran up onto the pavement, causing the numerous pedestrians to flee in all directions. Before the frightened animals could be stopped they plunged into the laundry shop of Wah Lee. The front glass in the shop window was broken and considerable damage was done to the brick work.

The horses were soon quieted down by Policemen Evans and Forteney, who restored them to their former owner, neither of them having having been injured by the force of the collision.

THE BIG CLOCK AGAIN IN USE. Dial in the Postoffice Tower Once More Shows the Time.

The clock in the postoffice tower is gain doing duty, after having had a vacation since two minutes after 12 o'clock noon on July 11. When the clock stopped running at that time the decision was reached not only to have it thoroughly repaired, but to provide the timepiece with a new and more serviceable set of indicators because of the many business and office people who depend upon the clock for the regulation of their watches and clocks. As the old hands were painted a light color it was with considerable difficulty that the time could be told eithor in day time or at night. It was even more difficult to tell the time at night, as the illumination of the clock plainly showed the dividing lines of the various fields of the dial, and these were invariably confounded with the hands. By the changing of the clock hands there is no trouble now telling the time.

Intensely hot weather again prevailed in Washington vesterday, and, although the temperature was not quite so high as on Monday, the amount of suffering enured on account of the terrific heat was great. Officially, the thermometer showed only 25 degrees at 3 o'clock, the hottest hour of the day, but the actual heat as felt in the business portion of the city was considerable higher, and the entire without relief. an Ordinary Match. An aged, well-dressed man, with white side whiskers and a general appearance of substantial prosperity and eminent respeciability, stepped into the retail store on Fifth Avenue of a book publisher the other day and asked one of the young clerks in a confidential undertone:

"Have you a match?" "Certainly, sir," replied the young man, producing a handful of lucifers from his vest pocket, "but you will permit me to say that it is against the rules to smoke in this shop. "Oh, that's all right," replied the old gentleman amiably, "I never smoke."

With that he began to fumble in his last night from the effects of the heat. He sked the clerk for the loan of a knife. Then he lit the match, blew it out im-mediately and began to sharpen the burn-

"Ah, I see you need a toothpick," remarked the clerk, as he watched the whit-

"I am very much obliged to you. You see, I have a wooden leg, and one of the plas holding it together fell out. The match will do very nicely until I can get home. If you should happen to be over in Newark and have anything the matter with your leg just step into my office and I shall be glad to assist you.

His Defence.

I heard a rather good story the other day about a conductor who was once brought up before General Manager McNamara on a complaint made by a passenger. The passenger was a visition and her complaint seas that the conductor had stared at her. "A woman complains that you radds stared at her will she was riding on your ear," said the general manager. "Nays I stared at her?" rejoined the conductor. "How did she know I stared at her?" The judge, who loves a fact of the humor, was the point, and told the man to go back to his ear.
